Subject: Apple iPad Recommendation

Team,

Please review the email below from Bill. It looks like we have a few iPads coming to our concierge support users. I need a quick assessment on the implications this type of device poses to our network security and reliability. Let know the potential dangers and possible mitigation. Include a deployment recommendation.

Subject: 22" Apple iPad

A few weeks ago I was watching the Awards show on television and saw a commercial for the new 22" iPad coming out. The commercial made the product look amazing. I struck up a conversation with the gentleman next to me on my flight this morning and learned, while not quite a notebook, it would be quite helpful for me in making my sales presentation and keeping up with appointments. Honestly, my new notebook is a boat anchor.

Unless you have any objections I am going to ask Sarah in purchasing to put a few on order. You might even consider having your department get one for you so someone can show me how it works.

I am back in town in a couple of hours and we can discuss today if you have time.

-Bill

Thank you.
